Announcement Consolis new Group Technical Director

February 11, 2022.

Thomas Blanksvärd to join Consolis as the Group Technical Director.

Consolis, European leader in precast construction solutions, is pleased to announce the appointment of Thomas Blanksvärd who will join as Group Technical Director at Consolis starting from May 2022.

Thomas Blanksvärd will play a leading role for the Group when Consolis continues to drive and further develop its capabilities within sustainable precast solutions. His competence in material technology coupled with the academic connections will support Consolis continued journey towards reducing the environmental footprint in the construction industry. Tomas Blanksvärd was in 2020 awarded the prestigious Sigge Thernwall award, for his significant research regarding reduction of carbon dioxide emissions and increased efficiency through new technologies.

Commenting on the appointment, Stefan Rinaldo SVP Operational Development for Consolis Group says, "I am very pleased that Thomas Blanksvärd decided to join Consolis as Group Technical Director. Thomas have extensive experience from several roles in the construction industry, most recently with SKANSKA Sweden. He brings solid knowledge and specialisation in complex construction- and technical material solutions as well as products and systems for concrete-based constructions. With his strong professional and academic background we will continue to develop Consolis capabilities as an industry leader in the sustainable precast concrete business."

Thomas Blanksvärd says: "It's a great pleasure to join Consolis and to have the opportunity to lead and participate in the journey towards making Consolis an outstanding sustainable leader in the precast business."
